ZION EVANGELICAL LUTHERAN CHURCH
TURBOTVILLE, PA

APRIL 2019

Dear friends in Christ,

For many years of my ministry I have used a long-range planning system devised by Pastor Kennon Callahan. We have used it twice here at Zion. One of the first tasks of the planning group coming together is to answer what Pastor Callahan calls the “Invitational Question.” The question is in two parts and it is stated this way: “Do you believe that all of our best days are behind us as a church?” or “Do you believe that some of our best days are still ahead of us as a church?” I remember reviewing these questions with my brand-new Church Council in another congregation 28 years ago. The Church Council President, an elderly man with a long family history in our church, exclaimed “What a stupid question! Of course, you have to say that some of our best years are still ahead of us. Otherwise just close the doors and shut the church down!” Although I wasn't expecting such a vociferous reaction, that older pillar of the church was absolutely right. Every church has to think that some of its best days are still ahead of it, otherwise we are truly on death's door.

So what do you think? Zion has enjoyed many, many good years as a congregation. We have shared the gospel in our own community and even farther. We have supported ministries that actually reach around the globe. We can say so much about the past history of Zion, and without a doubt some of our very best days are behind us. At the same time, there are wonderful days still ahead of us. Some of our best days, even. Whereas our past was firmly placed in what many call the Christian culture, or Christendom, today and our future are placed in a time when we are called to be a mission church. It's true, we have a very rich mission field before us. That's the attitude we have to adopt. Instead of saying, “People just don't go to church anymore,” we need to look at our community and rejoice that we have so many people to teach about the Gospel of Jesus Christ. Think about that for a moment. That is the very thing we are called to do as a church. We are called to let people know that Jesus is risen from the dead, and that makes all the difference in their lives. Jesus has started

The Ascension of Our Lord

The Ascension of Our Lord

In Luke's gospel the risen Christ ascends into heaven and his followers are assured that the Spirit will empower them to be witnesses throughout the earth. The disciples were told to not gaze up into heaven to look for Jesus; we find his presence among us as we proclaim the word and share the Easter feast. We too long for the Spirit to enliven our faith and encourage our mission. We will celebrate the Eve of the Ascension this year on Thursday, May 30th at 7:00 pm.

a brand-new creation, and he is the first fruits. God's plan is to unite all things in heaven and on earth, all of creation into Jesus Christ. We are part of that gathering-in team. With Jesus our best days are always ahead of us. We are the body of Christ together, the baptized holy priesthood of Jesus. With so many people to evangelize, many of our best days are still ahead of us. The question becomes, will you participate in making the years to come some of our best days?

Life is a gift. It's not earned, it is simply given to us by our Creator. The gift of life is not our own doing; it is the gift of God. We can be grateful to God for this remarkable gift of life. In our thankfulness and gratitude, we can enjoy the life we've been given. We cannot spend the time that we've been given complaining or moaning about the fact that things are not just how we wish they were. Life is short, we should not waste our lives in such a way. Rather we can live the spirit of joy, a spirit that comes from being loved by Jesus Christ, from being granted the wonderful gift of life and salvation in Jesus. And we can share that life and salvation with people that we know. My friends, people are drawn to those who are enjoying life. We are a healthy, capable congregation. We are a congregation that is solid and strong. Let us enjoy life together and draw as many as we possibly can into the wonderful love of Jesus Christ. I can guarantee you, some of our best days are still ahead of us.

Yours in Christ,
Pastor Roux

Bible Study on First John

Commenting on the First Letter of John, Martin Luther wrote: "This is an outstanding epistle. It can buoy up afflicted hearts. Furthermore, it has John's style and manner of expression, so beautifully and gently does it picture Christ to us." In this one little letter we hear the central themes of Christianity proclaimed in just a few brief chapters. A seven session course on the First Letter of John begins Tuesday, April 23 and will be offered at both 10:30 am and 7:30 pm. The course is based on a study guide prepared by Pastor Timothy Keller of Redeemer Presbyterian Church in New York City. Please call the church office (570) 649-5195 if you would like to attend.

Holy Week at Zion

Holy Week begins with our celebration of The Sunday of the Passion, also known as Palm Sunday. We receive palms to raise up in worship, remembering Jesus' triumphant entrance through the Golden Gate in Jerusalem to begin the events of his suffering, death, and resurrection. We hear the story of the passionate love of Jesus from the Gospel of St. Luke.

Maundy Thursday begins with confession and absolution, then recalls the events of that final night for Jesus. The pastor and assistant will wash the feet of all who come forward, recalling the mandate ("Maundy") of Jesus to "Love one another as I have loved you." We then share the Lord's Supper at Jesus' command to "Do this, as often as you do it, in remembrance of me." After the meal, the altar is stripped in preparation for Good Friday.

Good Friday's liturgy is called "The Veneration of the Cross." We will hear the reading of the Passion according to St. John for the emphasis on the victory of Christ our King. Bidding Prayers are then prayed, followed by the procession with a rough hewn cross and the opportunity to pray at the foot of the cross.

Holy Saturday worship is known as "The Great Vigil of Easter." We begin as the day turns to evening, marking the beginning of the third day – the day of resurrection. We will gather outside for the lighting of the New Fire and the procession with the Paschal Candle. The candle represents Christ risen from the tomb. Once settled inside again, we will listen to the history of salvation through a series of Old Testament readings. We then move to the baptismal font for the baptism. Then we share the first Eucharist of Easter.

The days of Holy Week are the most important days of the year for a true believer. In the ritual drama of our worship we are drawn closer to Jesus Christ our Lord. You are greatly encouraged to be present with your family and enter fully into the mystery of salvation with the whole body of Christ the simple truth behind reading a lot of books: It's not that hard. We have all the time we need. The scary part—the part we all ignore—is that we are too addicted and too distracted to do what we all know is important. All it takes to start reading a lot more is to take “empty time” spent Twitter-stalking celebrities or watching “Desperate Housewives” and convert some of it to reading time. The theory is simple. It's the execution that's hard.

4. Execute

We all know reading is important. We all know we should do more of it, but we don't. The main reason this happens is a failure to execute. Here are some tactics that may help get results.

a. Use environmental design

Media is designed to be addictive. Moving away from media addiction can be as difficult as quitting drugs. The biggest bang-for-buck changes here are environmental. If you want to read, make sure (1) you remove all distractions from your environment and (2) you make books as easy to access as possible. Try to keep books everywhere so you can just pick one up and start reading.

b. Upload habits

Willpower is not a good tool for lifestyle change. It always fails you when you need it most. Instead of relying on strength of mind, build a fortress of habits—these are what will keep you resilient in tough times.

c. Go multi-medium

When it comes to reading, be a jack of all trades, not a specialist. If your goal is to read more, you can't be picky about where you read or what mediums you use. Read paper books. Read on your phone or tablet. Listen to audiobooks. Do these things everywhere—on park benches, in buses, on vacation... wherever you can.

Make your reading opportunistic. If you have a chance, take it. If you don't have a chance, find one. If you're looking for answers, give reading a try. You may find much, much more than what you were looking for.

Great reads are available on the bookshelves in the narthex. Check out time is two weeks.

Excerpted and adapted from “In the time you spend on social media each year, you could read 200 books” by Charles Chu, Quartz, January 29, 2017.

Extending the Meal

Each time that we gather for the Holy Communion, it is an anticipation of that time when Christians of every century and place will be together at the heavenly banquet table. Some of the imperfections are unavoidable because most of the generations of the church are not visible to us right now! But there are some things that we can do to include at the Lord's Table each Sunday as many of our members currently living as we can. Illnesses, infirmities, and other problems get in the way of meeting this goal. So if folks cannot get to Zion, perhaps Zion can get to them! Just think of it as the communion queue being extended through time and space to the sickbed of a member who wishes that he or she could share with us in receiving the gifts of grace from the Lord Jesus.

How could we accomplish this?

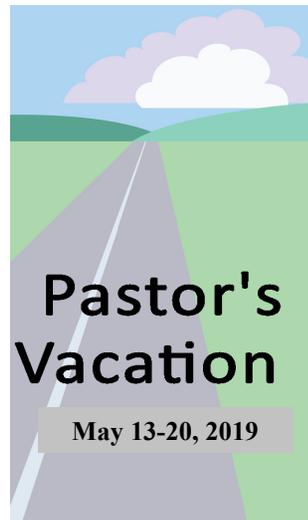

1. We begin by identifying those who are unable to be present and who would like to receive the Sacrament of Holy Communion at home.
2. We invite, recruit, and train a group of members of the parish to serve as Communion Visitors. These might be some of those who already are assisting at the services at Zion, but include others who would like to share in this particular ministry.
3. We appoint one person to serve as the organizer, who schedules a visitor and a person to be visited each Sunday, and provides the two names to the Presiding Pastor. The schedule will be regularly changing so that many visitors and persons-visited become acquainted.
4. We provide a printed order for each Visitor to use, as part of the training.
5. As the last person is communed each Sunday at whichever service the Visitor attends, the Assisting Minister places a small amount of the Body and Blood of Christ into the containers enclosed in the small Communion box.
6. The concluding prayer of the service then is also a public commissioning of the Visitor and a remembrance of the person to be visited.
7. As the Assisting Minister prays, the Presiding Pastor hands the Communion box to the Visitor, who is encouraged to make the visit as soon as it is practical.
8. Sometime during the week, the Visitor returns the box to the church, cleaned and ready for its next use, and informs the organizer of any details that need to be passed on to future visitors, as well as sharing appropriate information with the Pastor.

LIBRARY NOTES

“There have never been, nor are there now, too many good books.”
~~ Martin Luther

Social Media... or Books

Did you know that in the time you spend on social media each year, you could read 200 books? Somebody once asked Warren Buffett about his secret to success. Buffett pointed to a stack of books and said, “Read 500 pages like this every day. That’s how knowledge works. It builds up, like compound interest. All of you can do it, but I guarantee not many of you will...”

1. Do not quit before you start

When average person hears the advice “Read 500 pages like this every day,” his snap reaction is to say, “No way! That’s impossible!” and will then go on to make up reasons to justify his belief without doing any deep thinking at all. These might include “I’m too busy,” “I’m not smart enough,” or “Books just aren’t for me.” It’s just like Buffett says... anyone can do it, but most people won’t.

2. Do the simple math

How much time does it take to read 200 books a year?
First, let’s look at two quick statistics:

- The average American reads 200–400 words per minute
 - Typical non-fiction books have about 50,000 words
- Now, all we need are some quick calculations...
- 200 books at 50,000 words/book = 10 million words
 - 10 million words/400 wpm = 25,000 minutes
 - 25,000 minutes/60 = 417 hours

That’s all there is to it. To read 200 books, simply spend 417 hours a year reading.

3. Find the time

Wow, 417 hours! That sure feels like a lot. But what does 417 hours really mean? Let’s try to get some perspective.
Here’s how much time a single American spends on social media and TV in a year:

- 608 hours on social media
- 1642 hours on TV

That’s 2250 hours a year spent on JUNK! If those hours were spent reading instead, you could be reading over 1,000 books a year! Here’s

I would like to Thank everyone you sent cards, phone calls and inquiries on my health. Thank you to Pastor Roux for his hospital and home visits.
